Dear Mr. Weisberg,

Sept. 10 '96

I was glad to hear from you, and I'm always glad to get your advice! I'm still going to meet Robert, But at least now I know I need to be a little careful. I think years ago he had his heart in the right place and Believed he was helping in the investigation By doing what he did, But like you I feel he's changed. I guess money can do that to people. As far as I know, Christine is at the same address. Bob, as you know, moved to Dallas. I hear he's a permanent fixture now on the Grassy Knoll! But in all seriousness, I hope you can get in touch with Christine. I'm sure she would love to hear from you. Mrs. Weisberg seems to make sense of any situation, no matter how Bad it is, and I'm sure Chris could use some of her wonderful wisdom. I can't Believe it almost Been a year since the death of my grandfather, (where did the time go?) and I treasure the letters I recieved from the Both of you. You Brought comfort and sanity to a situation I felt was totally insane.

Tom Jones from Lancer is a good guy, But doesn't know much about the assassination, which he's already admitted to me. He doesn't consider himself a researcher; he just puts the magazine together. I've heard the Plaza is really small. I'm excited over to see it, But it will also Be sad to stand where the President died and history was changed. I feel this is going to Be quite a trip for me!

I hope you've Been feeling well and have Been able to work. Say Hello to Mrs. Weisberg for me.

I'll Be in touch again soon –

Yours, Carla

Handi-Card®

P.S. I thought my dad's car should have gotten Better than 3-d-too!!! But he's happy!

FISHING COVE 26-6

From an original mouthpainted by K. KYRIACOU
Published by the Association of Handicapped Artists, Inc.

Litho in U.S.A. by Holling Press, Inc., Buffalo, N.Y. 3 RECYCLED